

PROPOSAL

Presented to Cee Cee, Founder | Legacy Lengths
Presented by Ashley McLennon | The Editry
For your business consideration
June 2025

Legacy Lengths offers more than braids.

It delivers a luxury experience Black women can trust. In an oversaturated market full of inconsistent service, city-inflated prices, and poor communication, the optimizations layed out in this proposal will work because they combine three key truths:

1. Clients want ease. They're booking who makes the process feel seamless, not just who does good hair.
2. Perceived luxury drives demand. When clients feel the intention behind an elevated experience (steam, oil, towel), clients perceive value - and they share it.
3. Operational clarity builds consistency. Stylists work better and stay longer when they know the rules, the flow, and what they're paid.

This proposal is about more than branding and booking. It's about building a business that feels just as good to run as it looks online—and that makes money without the burnout.

The Editry Co. will support Legacy Lengths in creating a streamlined, branded, revenue-ready salon experience that scales with ease and intention.
